Dear Mr. [REDACTED],

I received some information from my brother Fred on November 2, and thought I should share it with you.

Fred sent what appears to be a preliminary inventory of the estate. I do not feel this is acceptable. Please note the discrepancy between the MONEY: section of the inventory and the letter from First Federal Savings Bank, which was the next piece of paper in the letter. These balances were as of January 1990, and not at the time the accounts were closed by Fred. There was no information on what went into, or out from, the estate account. This information should be available from his bank in Greenfield.

[REDACTED], Fred sent what looks like the original of your bill, so I am returning it to you. I trust that as executor he has already sent your payment. Thanks for your assistance.

Sincerely yours,

Eddie Lawhorn
